

Fife Council Register of Common Good Assets

Fife Council owns property that has Common Good status. Property can be Common Good if it was bought by, or gifted to, a former Burgh.

What is Common Good?

Property can be Common Good if it was gifted to or acquired by the Burgh on or before 15 May 1975 and it meets these criteria:

- it has been used by the general public for a long time
- it was dedicated for a specific public purpose
- the title conditions ensuring public use were agreed in the original charter

There can be other factors that decide if a property is Common Good or not, such as statutory reasons for owning a property, how it was acquired or if it is held by a separate trust. Common Good status means that restrictions apply on what can be done with the property. Restrictions on leasing or selling some Common Good assets exist but these can be altered by obtaining approval from the Courts. Proceeds from leasing or selling these assets are retained in the Common Good fund.

Common Good Register

Under the Community Empowerment (Scotland) Act 2015 and following Scottish Government Guidance, Local Authorities have a duty to publish a Common Good register and update as necessary. We have now completed the consultation process on the lists of property proposed to be included in the Fife Council Common Good Asset Register. This includes buildings, land, artwork, regalia and funds. Any representations received have been responded to and can be seen from the related pages.

Additional Assets

If property is identified as possibly being Common Good in a former Burgh that has not previously had a Common Good Fund, we will conduct a stand alone consultation process in accordance with the legislation to establish a register in that area.

Disposal or change of use of Common Good assets

Community groups can apply to the Council for any Common Good land or buildings they feel they could make better use of. They can request ownership, lease or other rights. Before making a decision on a request, the Council must carry out a consultation with the community and have regard to any representations made.

The Asset Register is a living document and will be reviewed regularly in accordance with our guidance. It will be amended if any new property is identified or if any existing property is disposed of or reclassified.

For ease of reference, the Register has been divided into the separate former Burghs.

Note:

Not all land in a former burgh owned by modern Councils is Common Good. Some of it may have been acquired by other Councils, like the former county, or district councils. However, almost all former burghs had a Common Good Fund, which consisted of land, buildings, moveable items like paintings, and cash.

The land and buildings which a burgh owned were made up of three main categories: those acquired under a statute (for example, land bought for council housing); land held on trust where a benefactor had provided for a specific trust to be administered by the fund; and Common Good property. What property now forms parts of the Common Good Fund may sometimes need research, as it may not be obvious from the titles what property was acquired for.

NB An inventory of Common Good art and artefacts is currently taking place. Records have been updated where we have confirmed information, but this work will continue during 2026.

NEWB002	The Alexander Laing Collection		Laing Museum Newburgh	Newburgh		Gifted to the Town of Newburgh by Alexander Laing		This collection consists of 2836 objects, stored across three locations (OnFife Collections Centre, Bankhead; St Andrews Museums, St Andrews; and the Laing Museum, Newburgh). Of these, the museum objects(e.g. objects displayed in the museum space) at the Laing were inventoried on 13 June22024. All 145 were present and correct, barring NEGLM:1983.0030, which is currently on display at DCLAG. In addition to these, the furniture (e.g. bookcases) in this room and the Library Room, as well as the books in the Library are also Common Good. A member of our Archives and Local Studies team has been working to catalogue the book collection since 2020, though this work has been halted due to a lack of staff. It is not currently feasible within this review to physically confirm the locations of all parts of the Alexander Laing Collection stored at Bankhead (1227) and St Andrews Museum (1285 objects). However, a full inventory was completed in 2017.
